

World Conference 2010 Youth Activities

As an international gathering, youth activities will be open to those who are youth as each nation or culture defines it. In North America, the church usually defines this as junior high and senior high, about ages 12-18. We recognize this is a wide age range, and in many nations and cultures the age range includes those who are older. Family members, guardians, and youth ministers are welcome to join in, watch or visit together in the Temple Break Room near to the Continents Room until after each activity is over.

We expect youth attending to register as conference participants, even if attending opening weekend only.

The Children and Youth Caucus is open to all children and youth. Family members, guardians, and youth ministers may attend as observers or speak if the caucus approves. Only delegates may vote.

In celebration of our history, the youth activities at this conference are called "Department of Recreation and Expression." This was the name of youth ministry at World Church headquarters in 1910.

The Tucker Leadership Lab, part of William Jewel College, Liberty, Missouri, will provide group experiential activities Monday and Thursday.

Activities and times are subject to change. Times are Central Daylight Time.

Changes or updated information will be provided during World Conference if necessary.
